St. Louis-based Medical Office Online Inc. is offering an online Total Practice Management service. Headed by Dr. John Costello, the company combines scheduling, electronic medical records, prescription writing, letter writing, billing and image-capture functions under a single-application service provider. Doctors can log on to their secure, browser-based database at the start of a work day and begin recording patient notes into the computer for each patient visit. At the completion of the visit, the notes are saved and are ready to be filed as an electronic claim.
